Air-Tistic Designs

Featuring:

Treva Hart, CBA

Sunday, Sept. 12, 2010

The Central Oklahoma QBN Chapter was organized in January 2001 to help promote the education of its members as well as educate the general public, whose concept of balloons was 3 balloons on 3 ribbons constituted décor.

In 2002, 10 members studied together & took their CBA tests and all became Certified Balloon Artists.

Now, in 2010, our members have worked together and attended outstanding seminars around the USA, and we have given 25 scholarships to our members since the inception of the COQBN. Our primary goal to educate our members is realized with each seminar we have and with each scholarship we hand out. Our members are some of the most educated in the industry, & our goal is still to educate and promote our industry and our membership.

Air-Filled Classic Décor

Air-filled Arches– So, you want to build an arch without helium? Same price to the client, more profit in your pocket.

Air-filled Centerpiece

Sneaky twisting...

For those decorators that aren't twist-ers but want to add that look, here's a hands on project to show an air filled centerpiece so you don't get frustrated and twisted out of shape.

Tips, Tricks, Techniques

Treva Hart, CBA

Treva is a founding member of the COQBN. She attended IBAC 2003, and learned simple twisting which, when combined with classic décor & her creativity began the “deco-twisting” décor she is known for.

Treva worked with Balloon-a-Palooza & BalloonTown USA and received her certificate from the Rouseabout Graphics Seminar in 2006. She traveled to China to work with the Kim Tom Festival in 2007, was the winner of the Euro Design Contest sponsored by Qualatex and Conwin in 2008, traveling to Mol Belgium for Milenium Jam. She worked as staff at Float the Convention in 2009. Treva taught at 2009 Summer Balloon Camp and will return to teach in 2010 at Summer Balloon Camp. Her creativity is tempered with the reality of the job at hand, i.e., client budget, availability of product, and ease of design.
